Master's degree in Geography

1. Program Description:

A master's degree in geography and territory planning is designed to prepare students to pursue master's degrees in urban planning. It allows the graduate student to be integrated into programming and planning and a decision-making. The program is provided to know how to master the planning and financial tools of the territory, to develop the ability to work individually and in a team and to master the methodology and techniques of writing and analysis for a better presentation of presentations, internship reports and dissertations. Furthermore, it is a question here of master in computer tools, in particular those relating to statistics and the application of digitized cartographic processing software (map info, GIS, arc GIS, etc.)
