

University of Oum El Bouaghi

Master's degree in history

Master's degree in History of contemporary Maghreb

1. Program Description:

The master's degree in the history of the contemporary Maghreb is designed to prepare students intellectually and prepare them to pursue their formation in a doctorate in history. It also allows the graduate to integrate into the labor factor and teach in the intermediate and secondary educational stages, and to help students acquire knowledge and develop their curricula in the field of historical writing and learn about the history of the Maghreb region, and its historical sources.

Institutions and other socio-economic partners:

Mujahideen Directorate

Mujahid Museum

- Directorate of National Education

- Directorate of Culture

Foreign international partners

Inclusion of training agreements in the appendices.

Training framework and objectives:

The aim of this training is to delve deeper into the contemporary history of the Maghreb in its various aspects to complete the training of L.M.D. students, and the interest in this specialization falls within the framework of rewriting the contemporary history of the Maghreb in general and the history of Algeria in particular so that we can restore interest in this specialization of outstanding importance in National identity in its Islamic, Arab and Amazigh dimensions. This specialization also enables us to identify the roots of historical, civilizational and cultural ties between the countries of the Maghreb, and also enables us to identify the nature of the Maghreb's confrontation with the Crusades and European colonialism.

Target qualifications and capabilities:

This specialization seeks to form students who acquire scientific and cultural qualifications and abilities in the history of the contemporary Arab Maghreb, in its political, cultural, economic, social and strategic aspects, by in-depth and addressing delicate topics affecting the Maghreb society and its development during the contemporary period, such as the social structure and the natural and economic phenomena of the Maghreb, The political development of the Arab Maghreb during the contemporary period, and this training also aims to provide the student with knowledge that helps in mastering and in-depth in this Specialization, such as the natural and economic geography of the Arab Maghreb, and the bibliography of the Maghreb, enabling him to study foreign historical texts about the Maghreb, acquiring an entrepreneurial culture and familiarizing himself with contemporary means of communication.

Regional and national capacities capable of employing university degree holders

The holder of a master's degree in the history of the contemporary Arab Maghreb can join the following sectors: - educational institutions - the final and secondary stages

Bridges towards other disciplines:

- National institutions of a scientific and cultural nature

Archive and documentation centers across the country

Tourism and museums sector

- Executive directorates of the following sectors: Mujahideen, culture, tourism, local communities.

- Ministry of Foreign Affairs - Diplomatic Corps (Cultural Attache - Diplomatic Attache)

Defense and national security, directorates and interests with cultural specialties

Bridges towards other disciplines:

Modern and contemporary history

-International Relations

-Training follow-up indicators:

Follow-up of the project depends on the students' understanding and desire to enroll in this specialization, taking into account the job opportunities offered by the training in the world of work, and the extent to which the targeted institutions and bodies respond to the competencies of this training, and the horizons and production that this training provides in scientific research.

Framing capabilities:

The department can supervise 80 students in the master's program

2. Entry Requirements (Other) :

bachelor's degree in the general history

Teaching units and subjects

First term:

Teaching units	Subjects
The Main Teaching Unit	Contemporary history of Algeria 1
	Contemporary History of Al-Aqsa Morocco-1
	History of Contemporary Tunisia-1
	History of contemporary Libya
Methodology Teaching Unit	Research methodology and techniques
	Sources of contemporary Maghreb
Exploratory Teaching Unit	The natural geography of the Maghreb
	Flags of the Maghreb national movements
	History of Africa and Asia in the 20th Century
Horizontal Teaching Unit	Foreign Language

Second term:

Teaching units	Subjects
The Main Teaching Unit	Contemporary history of Algeria 2
	Contemporary History of Al-Aqsa Morocco-2
	History of Contemporary Tunisia-2
	Contemporary Mauritanian History
Methodology Teaching Unit	Historical research methodology and techniques
	Historical texts

Exploratory Teaching Unit	Article 1: Compulsory communication modes
	optional- (Choose one subject) *History of journalism in the Maghreb *Contemporary world history
Horizontal Teaching Unit	Foreign Language

Training offer: Master 2 Degree in Human Sciences

History branch

History of Contemporary Maghreb

specialty

Teaching units and subjects

Third term:

Teaching units	Subjects
The Main Teaching Unit	Algerian Revolution
	Colonial politics in the Maghreb countries (Sec. 19/20 AD)
	Maghreb national movements (1954-1900)
	Human geography of the Maghreb
Methodology Teaching Unit	Memorandum preparation methodology Research seminars
Exploratory Teaching Unit	entrepreneurship Compulsory
	Cour2 Electives: (choose one subject) * Teaching history subject *Contemporary Europe
Horizontal Teaching Unit	Foreign Language

Fourth term :

Personal work (memorandum preparation and discussion)
Internship in the institution or field training
Forums
Additional Works

